Additional Backup Information

City of Austin acts as the "Program Manager" for the Greater Austin-Travis County Regional Radio System ("GATRRS"), which provides voice radio communications for most public safety agencies (police, sheriff, fire, emergency medical services) in the Austin-Travis County region. In that capacity, the City, through the Wireless Communication Services Division of CTM, runs a full-service radio shop that provides installation, maintenance, and repair services to all City of Austin departments for two-way radios, mobile data computers, in-vehicle video/audio systems, sirens, light bars, antennas, and related equipment. As an internal service-funded division, WCSD recovers its costs for these services by invoicing the departments it serves.

The City has had agreements in place with Travis County since 1988 for radio installation and maintenance services. In subsequent years, with Council authorization, WCSD has executed Radio Maintenance Interlocal Agreements with Travis County's GATRRS Associates, including twelve Travis County Emergency Services Districts (fire departments) and several municipal police departments, as well as the Austin Independent School District. By providing these services, WCSD is able to maintain a high level of standardization and quality control for all agencies that use the GATRRS, thereby improving overall system performance and reliability as well as customer satisfaction. WCSD bills the County and all other outside agencies at the same rates charged for internal services to City of Austin departments.

The proposed Agreement with Travis County restates the portions of the 1994 agreement, as amended in 1999, that are to remain effective and includes new provisions for the City and the County to implement. The County will pay the City for services in accordance with a mutually agreed upon fee schedule.
